Canyon Churches To Observe Soil Stewardship Week With Services

Many Canyon churches and Canyon business men will help emphasize conservation of soil by observing "Soil Conservation Week," May 26-June 2. This week of emphasis is sponsored nationally by Soil Conservation District organizations.

The Canyon Ministerial Alliance voted unanimously to help observe this week by special church programs. In Canyon, the pastors will be aided by 4-H girls and boys to have a special service on soil stewardship.

Locally, the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District officers are co-sponsors of this special observance with several ministers of Canyon churches. J. W. Spencer, chairman, and C. V. Conatser, vice chairman of the district, met with local ministers to work out details for the week's activities.

Majors To Be Selected May 31 Following Series of Workouts

After nearly eight hours of bidding for players, the rosters of the four teams in the Randall County Little League were selected by the managers Monday night. The teams will begin workouts this week and on May 31, the rosters will be divided into major and minor leagues. The managers, Velton Sorgee of the Redlegs, Hugh Greiner of the Braves, Rex Reeves of the Yankees, and Chester Reynolds of the Dodgers, worked with the Player Agent, Truett Hull, in selecting the teams.

Under the plan the league will use, every boy who signed up to play ball will be allowed to play. The four major league teams will be limited by rules to 15 players, while the minor league teams will be made up of those boys on the rosters who are not included on the final major league team lists.

The minor league teams, operating with the same managers and coaches as the majors, will operate as farm clubs for the majors. Boys who play in the minors will be preparing for berths on the major clubs much in the same fashion as in professional baseball.

The minor league teams will play on a schedule just as the major league teams will.

The player auction held Monday night is secret under rules of the national Little League Association. The rule was made so that no boy will know what price the manager had to pay for him. Only the managers and the Player Agent are allowed to know the prices.

On the major league teams, when they are finally selected, will be 15 players—no more than six of whom may be 12 and no less than four must be 10 or younger. In the event that any of the players on the major league teams must drop out of the program, the manager may call up a boy from his farm club who is in the same or younger age classification.

No player on a major league team may be dropped because of playing ability.

Brothers were put on the same team under Little League rules.

The rosters and workout dates are as follows:

Sheriff Needs Aid To Find Sisters

Sheriff L. S. Johnston has been asked to help locate three sisters of Frank Gutry or Frank Guthrie who are supposed to have married and are living in the Canyon area.

The sheriff was asked to help find the women by Denver Young, sheriff of Marion County, Ore. Young wrote that the married names of the three women are not known.

Sheriff Young said that Mr. Gutry, or Guthrie, was burned to death April 29 when his house burned up. He is believed to have been born in Canyon, but the date is not known.

Mr. Gutry was about 70 years old and of Spanish descent, according to Sheriff Young. He had lived in the vicinity of Salem, Ore., for about 35 years.

Anyone who might have information about Mr. Gutry's sisters is asked to contact Sheriff Johnston.

Dumas Man Joins College PE Staff

John Whinnery, head football coach at Dumas High School for the last six years, will join the West Texas State College athletic staff Sept. 1, President James P. Cornette has announced.

Whinnery, one of the state's most successful coaches with a record of 45 wins, 12 defeats and three ties at Dumas, will work in the physical education department at West Texas.

A 10-letter man in football, track and wrestling at Northeastern State College, Whinnery got his start in the coaching field at Keifer, Okla., High School in 1939. He compiled a record of 17 wins and three defeats in two seasons before moving on to assistant coaching jobs at Muskogee, Okla., Pampa and Amarillo high schools.

He was backfield coach in football and head track coach at Amarillo and is credited with turning out a number of outstanding cindermen.

An Oklahoma all-college fullback for two years, Whinnery still holds the state's collegiate discus record of 157 feet, set in 1938. In high school, he was an all-state fullback, state shot put and heavyweight wrestling champion at Fort Dodge, Ia.

Whinnery is married and has four children—Randall, 19, Jean, 16, John, 12, and Jim, 11.

At West Texas, he will work with W. A. "Gus" Miller in expanding the physical education department. Miller, former athletic director and basketball coach, recently was appointed head of that department, effective Sept. 1.

Get .46 Additional Rain During Week

Nearly a half-inch of rain fell in Canyon during the past week, bringing the year's total rainfall to 6.86 inches.

Last Wednesday night a shower brought .10 of an inch of moisture.

A harder rain Saturday night gave the city .36 of an inch.

Interviews Answer Questions About Proposed Bond Election

The $650,000 bond election called for June 8 by the city is the culmination of nearly a year's study and planning on the part of the city commission and a consulting engineer hired by the city.

In a series of interviews with Bill McMorriees, the consulting engineer, and members of the city commission, a number of questions have been asked. Others were discussed for the civic development committee of the chamber of commerce.

The city's plan calls for the purchase and development of a new waterfield about 12 miles west and three miles north of Canyon, on four sections of land owned by Mack Forrester. The city will purchase the water rights to the four sections, three sections at $50 an acre and one at $10 an acre.

The commission plans drilling three wells at the present time. The steel water tank given the city by the Santa Fe will be moved from its present location to the new waterfield, and the wells will pump through eight-inch lines into the tank.

A 16-inch transmission line will connect the steel tank with water facilities in Canyon.

How much water can be expected from the field? McMorries said that if the per capita consumption (about 130 to 140 gallons a day) remains the same, the field has enough water for a population of 20,000 people.

The city commission expects to be able to repay the bond issue without raising taxes or water rates. How can this be done? Mayor Hosea Foster said that the plan will work because the bonds to be issued are 30-year bonds rather than short-term bonds.

The proposed repayment schedule calls for interest payments only until the present outstanding bonded indebtedness is nearly wiped out. The present, the city owes $558,789 in principal and interest.

The city's present revenue bonds will be liquidated in 1968 and the present tax bonds will be repaid in 1973.

The proposed $650,000 bond issue is in two parts, $500,000 revenue bonds and $150,000 tax bonds.

Repayment of the revenue bond principal will begin in 1968. Repayment of the tax bond principal will begin in 1966, when the present annual tax bond payments drop from $27,831.25 to $12,275.

The proposed repayment schedule calls for the new revenue bond issue to be repaid in 1985 and the new tax bond issue to be finished in 1976.

If the bond issue is passed by the voters on June 8, when would the city begin to receive water from the new field? McMorries estimates that it will be the middle of the winter before construction is completed, although with extreme good luck, the lines and wells could be completed about the first of the year.

What interest rate is expected for the new bonds, if the issue is passed by the voters? R. A. Underwood, the bond man employed by the city as fiscal agent, estimates that the $650,000 issue will sell at a rate between 3¾ths and 4 per cent.

What advantage is there to a heavy vote? Underwood told the city commission that a heavy vote on the election, with a good majority passing the issue, would make the bonds more attractive to buyers and would be reflected in the percentage rate—as much as one-quarter of one per cent lower.

Why is a major addition to the water system of Canyon needed? A study of the waterworks by McMorries and the experiences of last summer show that the city's supply of water from deep wells is failing. At several times last summer, the daily consumption was almost equal to the maximum possible supply.

Although a city-wide rationing was not put into effect last summer, on peak days, the supply to the college was shut down and watering in the city park was also stopped. Mayor Foster said that on several days the line pressure was dropped so that less water would flow thrugh open hydrants.

Using figures supplied by McMorries' study, the maximum possible daily supply is 2.6 million gallons. The city and college are expected to use 3.1 million gallons on peak days this summer—some I've heard it expressed, and I feel it's about right: We've learned too much about our weather. Which is just another way of saying: A little learning is a dangerous thing.

The weather people have learned just enough about tornadoes to keep everybody stirred up, but not enough to be accurate. Like last Wednesday. The severe weather warnings started coming out in the morning, changed to possible tornado warnings later in the day, but were supposed to be over early in the night.

Then, when everything was supposed to be pretty calm, and the all clear had sounded, whoomp, out of the sky came a tornado.

It would be silly to blame the weather bureau because the tornado came, the weathermen had nothing to do with that. It would also be futile to blame the weather bureau because Silverton had no warning, the weathermen simply don't know enough about tornado behavior to predict accurately.

But a lot of people know about human behavior. When you cry, "Wolf, wolf," too many times, nobody will believe you when the wolf really comes. Incessant tornado warnings for huge areas can easily lead to a mistaken sense of security.

And that is all from the Observation Bureau at The Canyon News.

President Eisenhower's appeal to the people on behalf of his proposed budget seems to have had little effect, so far. Or maybe you'd call it an adverse effect.

Ben Ezzell, editor of The Canadian Record, put it this way:

"Unless the people who are continually demanding more of the government . . . in federal aid, farm subsidies, veterans benefits, and special benefits . . . are willing to settle for less, we're going to continue to have a king-sized national budget and we may as well learn to live with it."

Harold Hudson, editor of the Ochiltree County Herald, put it this way:

"If you want something to think about—the present administration will have collected more taxes at the end of 1958 than did the whole Truman administration. The Truman administration collected more taxes than all other administrations in American history combined. In the first 156 years of our history, the federal government took in $244.1 billion. Truman took in $342.3 billion. The Eisenhower administration will take in $373 billion at the end of next year."

At least two other Panhandle counties are following the lead of the Randall County Commissioners Court in building new jails. Both are using some of the methods used by our commissioners.

The Deaf Smith court has called a bond election for a new jail, the plans for which are quite similar to the Randall County jail.

Ochiltree County is about to start construction and they are using the same financing plan used by the Randall commissioners—issuing the warrants which will be refunded into bonds.

Deaf Smith County is using the same architect that Randall used, and Ochiltree County is using the same financial agent.

Randall County's commissioners sort of ran a test on the plans, and since they've worked, other courts are copying. It's a comfortable feeling for others to be following your lead.

Closer to home, the Canyon City Commission's proposed plan to pay for a $650,000 bond issue for water system expansion without calling for an increase in either taxes or water rates is commendable.

The plan actually came from the bond company, R. A. Underwood and Company. The city commission had asked if such a thing would be possible, and the bond company came up with the repayment schedule which would allow it.

It works this way: For the first eight or nine years, the city will pay only interest on the new bonds. Principal retirement would not start until old bonds had been retired. Such a plan would be impossible on bonds set up to be paid off in a short period, such as 15 years—it is possible only with long-term, 30-year bonds.

And, anyway, even if some tax increase were necessary, I believe the water system expansion plans would be worth it. There just doesn't seem to be any possibility for expansion in the present water field, and a new water field seems to be the only answer.

As so many people have said so many times, water is worth whatever you have to pay for it.

If we can figure out some way to get the figures into type and printed in a fair manner, we plan to print the proposed schedule in The Canyon News so everyone can see for themselves.

As a check, I took the schedule, added up the payments needed to retire both old and new bonds, and found the 30-year average annual payment to be $59,222. What I know about long-term municipal bonds could be hidden on the point of a straight pin, but the bonding company says it will work and I'm inclined to take their advice.

During evening devotions in a boys' summer camp, a counselor was startled to hear this prayer from a 12-year old:

"O God, we thank Thee for every blessing. We are grateful for the birds and the bees and the flowers—they mean so much to those who teach us about them. Amen."

Spread through this issue are thumbnail sketches of the activities of the members of the 1957 senior class at Canyon High School, giving their hopes, ambitions and successes they have enjoyed while in high school.

We can ony wish them further successes following their graduation this week, and the hope that their ambitions can be fulfilled to a great degree.

Although graduation from high school was a number of years back, it can be remembered that there was a certain amount of fear involved in the process, a joy when the commencement exercises were finally over, and soon after, a lost feeling.

Although there was considerable talk about the "great world outside," I'm afraid that Slaton did not seem any bigger or more mysterious on the day following the graduation. It was still Slaton, and that was that.

I can't remember having seen some of those with whom I graduated since that time. Others I've seen, but lost track of; and others I see on occasion. For the life of me, I couldn't recall all the members of that class.

The lost feeling was a true prediction. I've lost the acquaintance of some of those who struggled with me through the years of high school. Though it will probably be true for the 1957 Canyon High class, I hope it is less so.

The special assembly is slated at 10 a. m. in the Administration Building auditorium, and the public is invited. Seniors will also hold their annual class picnic Thursday afternoon, and will be honored Saturday night at a reception by President and Mrs. James P. Cornette.

Recently a university spent $30,000 to install elevators to the stadium press box.

I can remember when the Ranger High School football field was built for $11,000, (as I recall). Not only that but the stands were built in one week. The Bulldogs proved to be unexpectedly strong and they had a game coming up with a traditional rival. So the stands were built to seat 6,000 or thereabouts. Barely completed in time for the game—with the Cisco Loboes, if memory serves a-right. Something like 8,000 squeezed into the stands and massed along the sidelines and back of the end zones—and Ranger's share of the gate receipts from that one game almost paid for the stadium.

Because it was built by the Joneses boys."

NEWS LETTER

FROM CONGRESSMAN WALTER ROGERS OF THE 18TH CONGRESSIONAL DISTRICT

Administration Attempts Advance Veto Gas Bill

The hearings on the new Harris-O'Hara gas bill commenced this week. You will recall that the old gas bill, the one that was passed by the Congress last year and sent to the White House, was vetoed by the President. You will also recall that he stated the bill was a good bill and one that was needed, but that he was vetoeing it because of arrogance on the part of some of the proponents of the legislation.

I thought then, and I think now, that was a pretty lame excuse for penalizing hundreds of small producers and land owners, and forcing them under the dictates and controls of a centralized federal bureau in Washington. Nevertheless, the veto stuck, and the small producers and land owners were kept under the boot heel of federal bureaucracy.

During the elections last year the Administration led these people to believe that if Mr. Eisenhower was re-elected as President, gas legislation, freeing these people from federal domination, would be advocated, sponsored and promoted in and through the Congress and signed by the President.

It was openly and notoriously advertised that this Administration was vigorously opposed to the philosophy of federal price control of a commodity, that it was basically opposed to concentration of power in the national Capital and against centralized government. Taking the Administration at its word, many people bought what has turned out to be a "pig in a poke."

The gas bill that is before us is not the gas bill that was passed last year and which the Administration indicated it favored. The new gas bill, supposedly agreed to by the Administration, is a limited federal control bill.

In other words, the Administration took the position that it had changed its philosophy about federal domination and was willing to accept centralization of government and concentration of power in a federal bureau with certain limitations. Those of us who have staunchly defended the sovereign rights of the states through the years and have vigorously opposed the continuing encroachment of federal bureaucracy, looked upon the bill with many misgivings.

We were not consulted or conferred with in the preparation of the measure nor were we given opportunity to present proposals in keeping with our fundamental principles concerning federal pre-emption of all the rights of the people. However, we did realize we would have an opportunity to present clarifying and corrective amendments to provide safeguards under the circumstances. We proceeded with the hearings in good faith.

It was the first witness who appeared before the Committee who dropped the bombshell. The witness was Mr. Charles Kendall, a career employee of the Office of Defense Mobilization (ODM). This agency is an arm of the White House.

Mr. Kendall appeared as a witness for ODM and the Bureau of the Budget—another arm of the White House; in fact, the right arm. It had been expected he would announce the position of the Administration in support of the legislation which had been prepared and drafted after consultation with, and full understanding of, Administration forces.

He testified that the Administration was in support of the legislation only upon the condition that it be amended in two respects. It was this condition that constituted the bombshell, because the two amendments insisted upon by the Administration, with the other terms of the bill as written, would actually leave the small producers and landowners in almost the identical position in which they were placed by the Supreme Court, if not worse.

In other words, these small producers and landowners would be under the absolute domination and control of a bureau of the federal government.

I must confess that the action of the Administration was not a great surprise to me, because it is in keeping with what has been done on several other occasions. The "powers that be" are daily preaching the Constitution of the United States, the sovereign rights of the states, opposition to centralized povernment, cutting down on federal bureaus and federal spending, reduction of powers in federal agencies, and the return of rights to the several states.

Yet almost every action and practice engaged in by the Administration powers has been contradictory to the philosophies they have advertised. Their position on the gas bill is no different from the position they have taken in many labor matters, in civil rights matters, in numerous tax matters, as well as their support of the doctrine of pre-emption that permits the federal government to actually take over any governmental field it enters.

The developments concerning the gas bill simply amount to this: If the Administration can force amendments, the measure will, in the adoption of its proposed effect, set up a basic governmental principle of federal price control and physical control of a commodity.

Once such a conception is underwritten by the Congress of the United States of America, there is nothing to prevent its spread from gas to milk, to shoes, to bread, or to any other commodity in which the people, under the Constitution, have the basic right of private property ownership.

There is deep suspicion that some of the political advisers of this Administration have conceived the idea that by this approach the bill will be made so unpalatable it will be defeated, and that it will not be necessary for the President to take a stand on the subject and either sign or veto a gas bill. If this is the play, it amounts to an advance veto by the Administration's political advisers.

Hila Fae Begert, Paul Pepmiller Nuptials Read Saturday Evening

The First Methodist Church was the scene Saturday night for the marriage of Hila Fae Begert, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Begert, to Paul Edward Pepmiller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl E. Pepmiller of East Prairie, Mo. The Rev. Doyle Ragle, pastor, read the double-ring service. The altar, backed by an arch of salal foliage, was draped with white satin and garlands of salal. Completing the decor were arrangements of white daisies, stock, emerald foliage and candelabra.

Mrs. Glenn Dowlen, organist, played, "Why Do I Love You," "I Love Thee," "Traumerie," "Liebestraum," "O Promise Me" and "O Perfect Love" as a prelude. "Ave Maria," "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Mrs. Jesse Jones. Traditional wedding marches were used and "Clair de Lune" was the accompaniment for the exchange of vows.

Robert Begert, brother of the bride, and John Weilding of Amarillo, cousin of the bride, lighted the candles.

Attending the bride as matron-of-honor was Mrs. O. J. Richardson of Dumas and Erlene Markham of Amarillo was maid-of-honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Edward Klein of Carlsbad, N. M., Mrs. Jimmy Clubb of Los Angeles, Calif., and Sandra Jo Hooper of Amarillo. They wore identical princess dresses of pale yellow crystalline, fashioned with decollete necklines and eyelet embroidered inserts in the full ballerina length skirts. Their hats were of matching nylon straw accented with yellow net, and they carried cascades of white and yellow daisies.

A yellow and white organdy frock with matching nylon straw hat was worn by flower girl, Jill Richardson of Dumas, cousin of the bride. She carried a basket of white rose petals.

James K. McCann of Colorado Springs, Colo., was his brother-in-law's best man. Groomsmen were Henry A. Miller of Ashburn, Ga., Thomas Roberts of Orange, N. J., and Robert Whitman of Indianhead, Md. Cousin of the bride, Rickey Richardson, was ring bearer. Ushers were Fred R. Begert, brother of the bride, Roscoe Richardson and Gene Richardson, uncles of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of French lace and tulle, fashioned with a long torso and bustle effect bow. The gathered skirt of ruffled tulle was ankle length and had a billowing overskirt embroidered with French inserts of appliqued lace, which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of French illusion was attached to a coronet of seed pearls. She carried a white Bible marked with an orchid and showered with white roses and satin streamers.

Mother of the bride, Mrs. Begert, wore a beige nylon dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was of Talisman roses. The bridegroom's mother, Mrs. Pepmiller, wore a rose beige dress with white accessories and a corsage of orchids.

Following the ceremony, the bridal party was honored at a reception in Fellowship Hall of the church. The serving table, covered with white lace over yellow, was flanked by tiered arrangements of white stock and daisies.

Assisting with the serving were Mrs. George Hill, Mrs. R. T. Furlow, Mrs. Claude Voorheese, Mrs. P. L. Pitt, Mrs. Bill McDonald, Mrs. Clarence Maynard, Dorothy Hargrove, Dorothy Rhodes and Grace Sheets. Mrs. Jerry Jarnagin played piano selections and guests were registered by Dorothy Hargrove of Amarillo.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a mint green sheath dress with white accessories and a white orchid corsage. After May 25, the couple will reside at 501-A E. 13th, Rolla, Mo.

Mrs. Pepmiller received her degree from West Texas State College and has been teaching in Glenwood School, Amarillo. She was a member of Kappa Kappa Iota Sorority. The bridegroom received his degree from Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield. He is working on his master's degree at the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, where he will teach math.

In a talk, "The Road Ahead," Mrs. Morris summed up the year's work and gave a preview of what the women of the club and of the world can expect in the future. She listed such inovations as solar heat and various push-button appliances for the home.

In the brief business meeting, the standing committees for next year were announced by Mrs. Winn.

A gift of appreciation was presented by the club to Mrs. Fulton and refreshments were served by the hostess at a table decorated with an arrangement of purple iris. Iris also decorated the other entertainment rooms.

Members of the entertainment committee, Mrs. J. C. Bellah, Mrs. Don Standley, Mrs. Weldon Hager and Mrs. D. C. Gamble, assisted Mrs. Hales in giving the tea.

HELD UP

Sailor at mast — Yes, sir, captain, I was held up ashore last night by two men.

Captain — Where?

Bos'n, cutting in — All the way back to the ship, sir.

NOT THAT KIND

"My poor brother," said the inmate of a rest home, "is suffering from fallen arches."

"What a shame!" soothed the visitor from the public welfare committee. "Flat feet, eh?"

"Not at all," corrected the inmate. "A bridge fell on him."

Start Weight Control Early

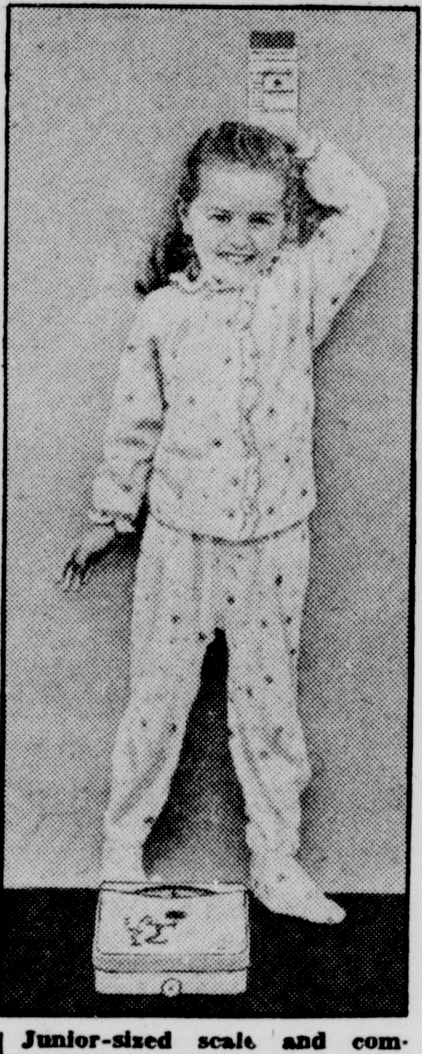
BY EDNA MILES

WHEN you take your baby to the doctor at regular intervals, almost the first thing the doctor does is weigh the baby. There's a good reason for this, of course. Weight is very closely connected to health, and weight control should start at an early age.

Later on, you may fall into the bad habit of offering your child candy or a sweet dessert if she eats up all her vegetables. You're heading her straight for a weight problem as an adult. Once she connects sweets with the idea of a reward, a pattern is formed.

What can you do about her weight while she's still small? You can weigh her once a week on the same scales at home and record the weight each week. Keep in mind that even a chubby child should not lose more than a pound a week unless it's under supervision of her doctor.

If you want your child's cooperation in weight control, give her her own scale, one designed especially for youngsters from ages 2 to 10. It comes in both pink and blue and can take rough treatment It also has an accompanying wall chart that shows both height and weight changes. A child of school age will find it fun to keep her own record.



Junior-sized scale and companion wall chart encourage this youngster to keep her own weight and height records.

ORGANIZED CONFUSION

Two veteran political stump speakers were discussing the perils of campaigning.

"Don't you just hate hecklers?" asked one of the spell-binders.

The other man laughed.

"No," he replied; "not if I can rehearse 'em properly."

County Equalization Starts Monday As Court Discusses 1957 Tax Rate

The county commissioners court will sit as a board of equalization beginning next Monday, it was decided at a meeting last Monday.

Tax assessor-collector Bill Money told the commissioners that they would have to act mainly on the valuations on property new to the tax rolls and with minor changes in other properties. He said that if they act as a board of equalization beginning Monday, the county would have ample time to mail notices of a public hearing around the middle of June to taxpayers whose values are changed.

Money suggested June 18 as the date for the public hearing, but the commissioners decided to wait until they had gone through the valuations before setting the date.

The commissioners began discussion of the county tax rate for next year, and expect to set the rate in the near future. It is expected that the new rate will include provisions to take care of retiring the expressway bond issue.

The Eagle's Tale

31st Year Published by The Canyon News for Canyon High School Wednesday, May 22, 1957

College Anyone?

As school nears an end, many seniors sigh, "I'm through with school forever." Others plan to go on to college.

From the appearance of the written words, those who plan to go to college seem the wisest. However, if we say "College here I come," with no thought as to the purpose for it, with only the social life in mind, a sad mistake can be made.

Many young people go to college because it is "the thing to do" to "learn how to get along with others" or to seek a mate—especially girls concerning the latter.

Just count up the expenses of a girl who goes to college to catch a man. She could do the same thing probably as quickly and with less expense working in a five and dime store.

After four years of horseplay a well-paying job is not likely to jump up on graduation day.

Next fall as beginners in college we should remember that colleges are crowded institutions from which to gain knowledge, and in which there is little room for one seeking pleasure with no work.

Eagle's Tale Bids Adios for Awhile

The Eagle's Tale staff bids farewell to a year of enjoyable and successful work.

This has been a year of learning, experimenting and doing. All of the staff members except one were newcomers to journalism.

First semester staff was Annelle Dugan, editor; Theresa Mickey, co-editor; Dusty Hiltbrunner, feature editor; John Menke, news editor; Delores Wagner, reporter.

Staff members for the second semester have been Theresa Mickey, editor; Delores Wagner, co-editor; John Menke, news editor; Annelle Dugan, column editor. Dusty Hiltbrunner served as feature writer until she moved from CHS.

Miss Marilyn A. Payne is the journalism instructor.

A Letter

Dear Sponsors:

As acting representative of the senior class, I would like to express the appreciation of this class to both of you.

We want both of you to know that we could not have succeeded in having such a wonderful senior trip, in addition to all the other projects this class has done, without your hard work and guidance.

We will never forget the things you have taught us, for they are of the greatest importance. You not only taught us knowledge from a book, but you taught us what to expect of life after we graduate from high school.

We will always remember and thank you for making these years so meaningful to us.

Yours very truly,
Larry Brandon
President

Spring Picnics Are Here Again

Now that spring is here and summer is just around the corner, picnics are a favorite pastime of Canyon High students. Three organizations, the band, FTA and the choir, found enjoyment by going on picnics.

The annual spring band picnic was held May 13 at the Marshalls. Over 40 band members were on hand for the picnic. Three band parents, Mrs. Wilford Taylor, Mrs. Jack Barnhill and Mrs. J. L. Riley, and two student teachers, Mr. Eddie Bowman and Mr. Lester Monday, were special guests of the band.

The FTA picnicked at the home of Liston Coleman on May 20. Their guests were Mrs. Irene Beard, Mrs. Andy Walsh and Miss Sarah Thompson, faculty members of the Canyon schools.

The choir had a picnic at the Marshalls on May 16.

Seniors Finish Work at CHS

Assembly Gives Lives of Seniors

"This is Your Life" was the theme of the final assembly presented by the seniors on May 16. In this assembly, numbers presented were the Last Will and Testament, by George Snapp and Ronald Crow, the Prophesy by Jackie Barnard and Theresa Mickey, and the History by Don Britain and Mary Sue Bolton.

Seniors of Canyon High School, 1957, "This is Your Life," says Don Britain and Mary Sue Bolton:

Once upon a time in Eagle Land there lived a host of cats. Here in the midst of this confusion is found CHS, and from this "cool" school comes the 1957 Senior Class History which will serve as a reminder of your "hep" days.

There were too many juveniles running loose in Canyon around 1944 so as a result the parents gave up and on Sept. 3, 1944, started the delinquents to school. The "mad house" consisted of Royce Gum, Carolyn Davis, better known as pee-wee; Joy Oldham, the athlete; Roland O'Donald, the woodpecker; Cecilia Waters, the flirt; Charles Cooper, the bright one; and of course the Canyon Grade School casanova, Ronald D. Crow—along with Fanita Marshall, Tommie Davis, Martha and Arthur Harding.

And Gordon Johnson, Charles Neblett, George Alexander, Leo Rigsby, Glenn Tucek, Ray Mills, Sandra Michael, Jimmy Craig, Sue Reynolds, Larry Brandon, Ann Howard, Wilford Taylor, Francis Boyd, and that good looking black haired George Snapp honored us with two weeks of his presence and then left to display his talents at Cactus, Texas.

Down on the east end of Eagle Land, WT Elementary had a host of first graders: Jackie Barnard, Vanda Latham, Christina Sikes, Bobby Samuelson, Norma Glenn, Charles Conatser, Annelle Dugan. This class was so small that they could not keep the romance between Christina Sikes and Bobby Samuelson from being known all over the campus. Of course this school had nothing on Canyon Grade because there has never been a love affair like that of Curtis Stroup and Mary Sue Bolton, Cecilia Waters and Casanova Crow, and Tommie Davis and Martha Harding.

Brian Tolliver failed his examination to go to West Point so he also had to join forces with WT Elementary, and Theora Cosby, who was chasing him, moved over from Hereford.

In 1949 the west and east side gang decided to join their forces; consequently both entered WT Elementary in the seventh grade.

Kermit, Texas, was so wrecked at this time, they decided to send the cause of it all to Canyon. This is the reason we are stuck with Lynn Atkinson today. We also picked up the hoodlum Gerald Free who was too big to stay wherever he was. Our eighth grade year we picked up Theresa Mickey who had been jilted by her 190 pound fullback lover from Tulia, and she decided to find a lover in Canyon. Who did she pick on but Don Roberson.

We also picked up LaVerne Riley, Florence Clement, who came to save 8-3 in their battle for the intramurals. Tiny Burkham decided the basketball team could not do without him, and he helped them win the Kress tournament, which placed Don, Charles and George on the all-tournament team. Also, whether you believe it or not, they won the sportsmanship trophy.

After Charles Cooper and Brian Tolliver blew up the campus of WT in Mr. Hulsey's science room, we do not know whether they were experimenting or reading bird cards but we all had to leave and enter Canyon High School as lowly "fish." About this time Janie Brotherton came dribbling in from Gruver, and that big strong cowpoke, Richard Gale Lowrey moved in with his herd of cattle from New Mexico. Jane Ledbetter came here from Amarillo. Virginia Walker came here from Chicago and brought a lot of mean tricks too.

Our sophomore year began our career with Briggs, Long & Co. By the way these two people helped us show the school which class was really running things. Barbara Shepard moved away to Amarillo High to win her fame. But we gained Janell Sweet and Ina Jo Hughes.

Sue McClenny came down from the big city to see how we operated, and Burton Davis liked the looks of things so he stayed too.

Our junior year we slaved like mad on money projects for the senior. Finally the long awaited senior year came and so did Bob Fielden with his drums.

In May of 1957 the hepcat seniors boarded a hot bus and headed for a dude ranch in the heart of Texas. Wow! Were these times to remember for the seniors! Mr. Cristy, the new class sponsor elected after Don Briggs left for work with more grown-up kids, was thought to be one of the senior boys. We all got back from the senior trip—not in the same condition, though — some limped for several days recovering from minor injuries—sane in mind and happy to be back in Good Old Canyon High School.

When this history was written many seniors were biting fingernails hoping to graduate on the 24th day of May with the rest of their friends. We leave this history as it is, hoping we may add at a later date, seniors graduated after 12 years of tireless efforts in the dear ole' Canyon schools.

Then and Now

When most of these seniors to school first went
Mrs. Collins and Mrs. Black thought we were "heaven sent."
Such joy we brought them every day
They hated to accept their pay!
Then to Mrs. Davis and Mrs.
Murrell we were sent along,
They felt like bursting into song, for having us cherubs was such fun
Every morning to school they would run.
Said Mrs. Goodman to Mrs. Usery:
"These kids are smart—they learn all their lessons by heart.
I've enjoyed having them so
I hate to see them go."
Mrs. Brasher and Mrs. Cousins began to feel a little meanness stealing into their fourth grade children fair.
(But we were still good kids, which are rare).
Now we were growing up some more,
In fifth and sixth grade we had teachers four: Messers Davis,
Iverson, Walsh and Jones,
Who worked their fingers to the bones and also wracked their learned heads to see that our little brains were fed.
Then came the work and fun of Junior High, and all our teachers thought, "My, we hope these kids will pass;
they really can dish out the sass!"
In High School many teachers we've had; some thought we were good; some thought we were bad.
Now graduation day is near, and the past school years we'll always hold dear.
The senior trip was so much fun,
we wish that it had just begun.
Of all the sponsors in the land,
Mrs. Long and Mr. Cristy have been the most grand!
Now commencement day is drawing nigh,
And to CHS we say "Goodbye!"

56 Seniors Visit Southern Texas

A dude ranch, San Antonio and Austin played hosts to the senior class as the graduating students visited South Texas on their senior trip May 8-12.

The Mayan Dude Ranch near Bandera entertained the 56 seniors and nine parents and sponsors for two sleepless days and nights. The tourists rode horseback, danced, swam, played pool, ping-pong, miniature golf, bowled, and drank grape Kool-Aid.

From the ranch, the class went into San Antonio and visited the Alamo and Brackenridge Park. In the afternoon, the two chartered buses carrying the seniors journeyed over to the Commodore Perry Hotel in Austin for two sleepless nights and one sleepless Saturday. Here the seniors took in a show, went skating, visited the capitol and shopped. Saturday nigh,t the seniors attended a banquet and dance in the State Ballroom.

On Sunday, the weary students came home. Other than a stop in a roadside park for a devotional, lunch in Abilene, and two rest stops, the buses did not stop, and the seniors could sleep undisturbed all the way home.

Some people never seem to grow old.

At the Commodore Perry Hotel in Austin, where the seniors were staying on their trip, the employes wanted to talk to the president of the class about some minor details.

Larry Brandon, the president, was brought over. No, that wasn't the one they wanted. They wanted the class president.

Well, that puzzled the seniors. If the waiters didn't want Larry, who did they want? Finally the seniors figured it out.

They wanted Mr. George Cristy, class sponsor.

Exes, Futures Play Annual Game

Canyon's All State guard, George Snapp sank a 35 foot push shot with the score tied and one second left in the game to down the hustling futures 35-34 in the annual future-exes game May 16.

The futures, showing amazing speed and accuracy, led the exes all the way until the end. The futures were ahead of the exes 10-9 at the end of the first quarter. Still leading at the half the futures had racked up 26 points while the exes had 19. By the third quarter the score was tied at 29-29. Sparked by Snapp's last second shot, the exes went on to win in the fourth quarter, 35-34.

Neblett was high point man for the exes and Miller was the high scorer for the futures.

The ex-freshmen were successful in outlasting the future-freshmen. Sparked by Richardson, the exes downed the futures, 44-36.

The exes were coached by A. L. Pruett and Leonard Miller, and the futures were coached by Dana Wilbanks and Eddie Boydstun.

Success seems hard to attain, but not to these winning seniors! On top of the ladder of success already is Charles Neblett who was selected in a class meeting May 14 as the person most likely to succeed. Lynn Atkinson, center, selected as the most beautiful girl, finds the ladder easy to scale with all her charms. Ronald Crow, the most handsome boy, says, "Move over Neb, I'm coming up."

Seniors Pick Those With Mostest As Atkinson, Crow and Neblett

The person most likely to succeed, the most beautiful girl and the most handsome boy of the CHS senior class were selected in a class meeting May 14.

Charles Neblett, the most likely to succeed; Lynn Atkinson, the most beautiful girl; and Ronald D. Crow, the most handsome boy, are outstanding students of Canyon High.

Proving that Charles is likely to succeed is his background. He was class favorite his freshman year; Canyon Boys' State Representative of 1956; a member of the National Honor Society, a member of the junior and senior play casts. As an outstanding athlete, Charles has been on the state track team two years, has been invited to play in the All-Star North and South football game in August, and the All-State basketball team — only to mention a few of his athletic achievements.

Lynn Atkinson was selected junior class favorite and treasurer, football queen of 1956-57, senior class secretary. Lynn has been a member of choir, National Honor Society and FHA while in high school.

Ronald Crow as most handsome boy has served the senior class well. He has served on various committees with class projects. "Crow," as he is called by his friends, has lettered in football and basketball, and has been a member of FFA.

County Orders Property Auction

The Randall County Commissioners Court authorized an auction sale of surplus county property Monday to be held June 8.

To be sold are the Sid Carter house, purchased for expressway right of way, the old branch tax office and home on Tyler Street in Amarillo, the Bechtold rock house, purchased for right of way, and various items of used office furniture.

The sale of the Amarillo property will include the real estate, and the house and office will not have to be moved. It had previously been sold to an Amarillo woman, but the sale was faulty because the sale had not been advertised three times as provided by law. It had been advertised only twice.

The other two houses will have to be moved by the purchasers. Possession of the Carter house will be granted July 1, while the other two will be available immediately.

The sale will begin at 1 p. m. in the district courtroom in the courthouse. The properties may be inspected June 6, 7 and 8. Nelson Auction Service will conduct the sale.

WASHINGTON NEWSLETTER

from Sen. Lyndon Johnson

The battle of the budget is still going on. It is not a sham battle. The Senate Appropriations Committee, of which I am a member, has made that clear. For example, the Committee voted to uphold the $80,000,000 cut made by the House of Representatives in the budget request for the Post Office and Treasury Departments.

Other spending requests in the President's budget are getting very close study.

The President is defending his budget on television. But after a White House conference, which I attended, the Administration announced that a re-examination of the situation shows that a cut of half a billion dollars below the budget request can be made in spending for foreign aid.

That's fine. Personally, I think we can make that saving and then some. And if the Administration's budget people misfigured the need for foreign aid, maybe they figured too high on other proposed expenditures. That's what Congress is determined to find out.

Money can be saved in foreign aid, according to unanimous agreement of members of the Special Senate Committee to Study the Foreign Aid Program.

While agreeing there are "valid reasons" for this country to continue various types of foreign aid, the Committee declared the program can be and must be improved.

"Objectives can be clarified," the Committee report said, "some grant programs can be converted to loans, administration can be streamlined, and substantial sums can be saved."

Most significant point about all this is that for once nearly everybody in official Washington is talking about the same thing: cutting the budget. In their talk, they are simply reflecting the overwhelming sentiment of the people generally.

A five-point program I am thinking about would have the purpose of allowing you to keep more of your own money. Here, in brief, are the actions I believe are necessary:

(1) Eliminate non-essential Federal spending. That is what we are trying to do now in our efforts to cut the Eisenhower budget.

(2) Set up a program to reduce the Federal debt. This step obviously must be preceded by a reduction in spending.

(3) Get better budgetary control. If new legislation is necessary to guarantee this, we should determine what it is and enact it.

(4) Reduce taxes at the earliest possible time. Again, this is a step that must be preceded by cutting Government expenditures.

(5) Find out what's wrong, if something is wrong, with our national fiscal policy. Work on this is already under way by the Senate Finance Committee.

What do you think of such a program? I will welcome your suggestions and criticisms.

I need your help, your ideas. I never forget that no man's judgment can be any better than his information.

Bible Verse to Study

"Wherefore, if any man is in Christ, he is a new creature; the old things are passed away; behold all things are become new."

1. Who wrote the above statement?
2. Of whom is it particularly descriptive?
3. To whom was it first written?
4. Where may this verse be found?

BIBLE VERSE ANSWERS:

1. Paul, the Apostle.
2. Paul, himself.
3. To the new Christians of Corinth.
4. II Corinthians 5:17.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

The supervisors in their last regular meeting approved cooperative agreements with the following farmers: E. E. Sharp, J. W. Byrd, L. C. Moore, Frank Ham, Neil Downing, R. E. Bryan, Cristler Crain and T. C. Jones.

Sunday, May 26, or Sunday, June 2, will be observed by the churches in Canyon as Soil Stewardship Sunday. Appropriate sermons will be given and everyone should attend these services.

The technicians of the Soil Conservation Service assisting the Randall-Potter Soil Conservation District have helped the following farmers apply practices on their farms: H. A. Knight and W. T. Smoot, 5 miles of standard terraces; Frank Ham, 946 feet of pipeline; Ben Buecker, 300 feet of pipeline; Ted Neely, 2750 feet of pipeline; Jack Vincent, 4300 feet of pipeline; R. C. Sampson Jr., 3145 feet of pipeline; W. K. Irwin, 1327 feet of pipeline; E. E. Sharp, a damless tank and Robert Detten, a damless tank.

Marvin D. Beights of Kaufman, Texas, has joined the Work Unit Staff in Canyon. Beights is married and has two children. Marvin has worked for the Soil Conservation Service about six years. At present he and his family reside at 2100 Fifth Avenue.

Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson made the following statement in behalf of Soil Stewardship Week and Rural Life Sunday, both of which occur this month:

"The Department of Agriculture is happy to join with the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts and national church organizations in the observance of National Soil Stewardship Week which they are sponsoring May 26 to June 2. During this week, or on Rural Life Sunday, May 26, local churches of various faiths and soil conservation districts throughout the nation will join in special recognition of man's responsibility as a steward of our God-given heritage—the productive soil.

"Such observance is especially heartening to us in the Department of Agriculture who are charged with helping farmers use soil wisely and at the same time conserve it for continued production for the generations to come. Our future food supply depends on the intelligence with which we use our productive resources — such as soil and water. Not only food but many raw materials for industry come from the soil. While solving today's problems, we must not neglect tomorrow's needs.

"I strongly urge farm, church, civic, conservation and other organizations to participate in this event as an important means of becoming better acquainted with the vital importance of wise use of our land to both our material and spiritual welfare. I am urging employees of the Department to participate in soil stewardship observance as citizens in their community or to help organized groups, when requested, in planning or conducting such events."

Cherry Blossoms

BY DOVIE CHERRY

Last week in this column, I began a series of articles on occupations because this is graduation season. The first was an interview with a secretary, Joyce Rushmer.

Secretarial work is an occupation that most people know something about and it's not considered unusual at all for a young person, especially a woman, to become a secretary. But what about an occupation which most people know little about, such as a funeral director?

So that is what this column is going to be about—funeral directors. Of course that means that this will be written mostly for the value of young men graduates, but, too, for the general information of those interested.

Jerry LaGrone was the person kind enough to take time to answer questions about his job, and I hope you find this as interesting as I did.

A funeral director's life is not an easy one and his job is one that demands a lot. Just what does a director do besides prepare the body for burial and attend to funeral services and interment?

Jerry said he once counted 105 routine things a funeral director must do at every funeral. This includes many such courtesies as making long distant telephone calls to relatives, keeping newspaper clippings of the deceased, notifying newspapers as well as seeing the family is taken to and from the funeral.

What training is necessary for this type of work? For a funeral director's license, one must attend a six months school and then take a state board examination. To be an embalmer requires three years of school.

Jerry said he attended the Institute of Mortuary Science in Dallas. He said he took nine different sciences, mostly pertaining to the human body. In addition were courses in mortuary administration which included business administration, accounting and restoring art. Two years of previous college education is preferred but not required.

At the end of the three years, he took a state board examination answering 1900 questions on the nine different sciences he studied. He started at 8:30 in the morning and completed the exam at 6 p. m.

In addition, he took an exam and received his conference license which enables him to practice in any state.

You don't ride your way through embalmer's training according to Jerry. In fact, after attending this school it would be easy to go through medical school. To give one example, an embalmer must be able to recognize the 35 or 36 different types of cancer.

Embalming is the part of his job which Jerry enjoys the most, he said. To do this he had to learn not only to embalm but to restore the features of the body as nearly to normal as possible. He had to learn such things as how to set a woman's hair and what cosmetics to use with what pigment of skin. And in some cases, he needs to be able to rebuild a face that is destroyed. In such a case, his training in plastic surgery is used.

Men are always shaved when prepared for burial. In his years of practice, Jerry said he had shaved all men he embalmed but one and this one had a heart attack while in a barber shop and had just been shaved.

There are many bits of information a funeral director must have tucked away for future use. He must know, for instance, the customs and traditions, especially burial rituals, of all religions.

To the young man considering funeral work Jerry advises him to really know what he's getting into before he makes the big jump. Being an assistant would be a good way to find out.

The reason he advises this caution is because there are certain undeniable disadvantages involved. This type of work leaves little time for outside life and to be with one's family. You make plans with the knowledge that they may have to be dismissed on a moment's notice. Then there are irregular hours. As a matter of practice, someone is always at the funeral home all night and day when a body is in state.

And a funeral director is likely to develop "telephonitis," i.e., always aware of the telephone and that it's probably for him.

Since a body is embalmed as soon as possible, the embalmer must leave whatever he is doing. According to Jerry, most people die after midnight which means he gets up in the middle of a lot of nights.

And here is where I would like to disprove the opinion that funeral directors don't really work. When a person sees that a funeral director is at home at 10 in the morning he may think, boy, what a life. But, what that person doesn't know is that the man may have been up until 4 a. m.

Why did Jerry choose this occupation? He started in funeral work when 12 years old as an assistant in the funeral home in Clarendon. He liked it so well that he couldn't leave it. Most people in the funeral business come from families of funeral home experience, he said, although he didn't.

And why does he like it? "I've found it one of the most satisfying feelings I've ever experienced . . . that of being able to help people at the time when they are at the lowest ebb of their life."

He finds, too, that in this work he makes many close friends and gets to know people. Also, he feels he has a part in furthering public health.

If you are considering funeral work, see if you have these qualifications. Even tempered, like people and get along with them, diplomatic, willing to keep your reputation above reproach, and wish to serve the people.

There is a present shortage of embalmers and the average salary is about $400.

Some people might ask, "Doesn't a funeral director have to have a special attitude toward death, maybe even a secular attitude?" Jerry doesn't believe so. "Death can be very beautiful," he said. To him it's only a step to something better .

Actually understanding what happens when a person dies and knowing that you are being of a great service and in many cases please a family more than would be possible at any other time is what makes a funeral director regard death in a wholesome attitude. "This is not gruesome work to me," he said.

And it helps to look on the humorous side every now and then. Jerry cites one case of his experience where a son was killed in military service and the family was heartbroken to the point of an emotional crackup. When the guard fired the first round of fire at interment, the grandmother, on emotional edge, screamed horrified. The little grandson then jumped up and said, "They've shot grandma."

I believe this is one of the most interesting interviews I've ever done. I have to admit that I was definitely in the dark as far as knowing what a funeral director's full job is other than the part we see him do at funerals.

To many people, I'm sure, the funeral home is a foreboding place no matter how beautiful it may be. To many, the funeral director's job especially the embalmer's task, seems a gruesome one.

A bit of knowledge as to actually what is done in the funeral home helps dislodge this feeling. As Jerry said, "When Americans fear something, they joke about it." Thus, the funeral parlor jokes. A little understanding helps get rid of a lot of fear.

I learned that people have the misconception that the suits for burial are only half suits, that is, the back is out. T'ain't so.

Some believe, or used to beieve, that hair grows after death. T'ain't so.

Embalming is used for public health reasons and to restore the features as nearly as possible to normal. Embalming is not done to preserve the body.

The normal process of embalming takes about three hours, but Jerry said he had worked as many as 36 hours on a cadaver badly disfigured.

The price on the casket includes the price of funeral services, and caskets have practically tripled in price the last 10 years.

A funeral director's work is not a profession. The fact that caskets and vaults must be sold, all at different prices, keeps it from being a profession.

LIPSTICK LOGIC
by
LOUISE ALLEN

It has just about got so every day but the second Sunday in May belongs to mother.

On almost every other day in the year, thanks to labor-saving devices and simplified cooking, she does pretty much as she pleases. She washes dishes when she wants to, reads the morning paper over a second cup of coffee after the family clears out, works in the yard in dirty jeans, takes an afternoon nap, reads or visits as she pleases.

But on "official" Mother's Day, she's on the spot from sun-up till sunset. She quits acting natural and becomes "typical." She's the mother of the ads and news stories, the one who is praised or challenged from the pulpit. She wears a corsage, gets taken out to dinner, receives gifts she could have done without, in general stays on inspection throughout the day.

Not that she doesn't appreciate all this hubbub. It's just that the day is different. The other 364 she is herself — an average, middle-class woman who has to watch her waistline and make a daily inspection in the mirror for gray hairs.

On May 12th, she puts on her best bib-and-tucker and takes the spotlight. For some women, this is a more pleasing role than for others. But when it comes to loving the people who knock themselves out to make her happy, there's no difference between the shy, retiring woman and the one who likes the center of the stage.

Every mother wants to be loved and appreciated. But what she really enjoys about Mother's Day is not the gifts she receives. It's the fact that her loved ones want to make a special occasion, once a year, of what she means to them day in and day out.

Highlights and Sidelights FROM Your State CAPITOL

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

In a final burst of energy, homesick Legislators broke the bottlenecks and started passing bills with machine-gun rapidity.

After days of delay, the Senate swept through most of the major bills still pending, in two days. It set a record for action this session and cleared the way for winding up money matters this week.

Report by the joint conference committee on the general appropriations bill was laid out for study. Approval of this bill plus two others designed to raise funds for teacher pay raises will be the signal for a fast finish.

Most observers feel certain that enough money will be found to give teachers a $400 across-the-board increase.

Texas-Size Mess

Relief workers face multiplying problems as they wade into the multi-million-dollar mess spread over water-glutted Texas.

Preliminary estimates placed damage at $85,000,000. This was before the Lower Brazos spread to a width of 13 miles in some places.

Federal Civil Defense Administration has an initial grant of $1,000,000 to help restore community-owned facilities. More is being sought. One of FCDA's more pressing problems is helping rural residents decontaminate flooded wells and spray against insects that breed in standing water.

In all, some half-dozen state and federal agencies are working to salvage public buildings, roads, businesses and farms.

Farmers got a setback, however, when federal officials refused to let them switch flooded acreage for higher land in the soil bank program. It means some will have usable land they can't cultivate because it was previously allotted to the soil bank and other land, not in the soil bank, they can't plant either, because of flooding.

Even so, encouraging reports continue to come in from rural areas. First post-drouth sales show grass-fattened cattle bringing higher prices. Small town bankers and businessmen report people are daring to spend again in anticipation of good crops.

NAACP Program Limited

NAACP can continue to operate in Texas, but with clipped wings. Unless a higher court reverses a Tyler district judge's ruling, NAACP will henceforth be permanently barred from all but "educational and charitable activities."

Suit to outlaw the organization in Texas was begun last year by former Atty. Gen. John Ben Shepperd. It has been carried on by the present staff under Atty. Gen. Will Wilson.

A temporary injunction issued by the Tyler court last fall halted all NAACP activity in the state. Present permanent injunction bans solicitation of lawsuits, and lobbying, in violation of state law. Court also ordered payment of back franchise taxes plus interest.

NAACP attorneys filed immediate notice of appeal.

Water Bill Filibustered

A water storage buying proposal was down, and maybe out, after a 13-hour "discussion" by Sen. Ottis Lock of Lufkin.

Lock's determined opposition meant several days delay on the measure at a time when delay often means death. Sen. George Parkhouse of Dallas, sponsor, was so disgruntled he threatened to junk the whole water conservation program.

Proposal, if approved by the voters, would allow the state to issue bonds to purchase water storage space in federal reservoirs. Lock contended the plan would be so unpopular with voters it would sink the whole water program at the polls. He objected on grounds it would be non-self-liquidating and would bring in federal controls.

Enough Said

Senate apparently wants no more long talks on the segregation bills.

First such bill to come up brought on a record-breaking 36-hour filibuster. But the second one was shoved through in minutes after a vote to shut off debate.

Passed was a bill to require local elections before schools can be integrated.

Last apparent hope of the segregation opponents now is that the bills will be referred to the attorney general and ruled unconstitutional. Atty. Gen. Will Wilson said he has made preparations to handle the bills promptly, if asked. Governor Daniel said he plans a thorough staff study of each bill before deciding whether to seek a ruling.

Better Pay Approved

If voters consent, future legislators may avoid some of the financial pinch many complain of now.

Senate approved a House constitutional amendment providing for annual sessions and more pay. But it upped the House-suggested salary of $4,800 to $7,500 a year.

Present arrangement is $25 a day for 120 days. It totals $3,000 for two years unless a special session crops up. Since May 7, when the 120 days ran out, lawmakers have been on their own moneywise.

Legislators' wives have been heard to speak bitterly of "going more in the hole every session." They cite cost of campaigns, two moves, high expenses in Austin, plus payments on house back home and "constant" telephone calls and trips to Austin between sessions to handle constituents' requests.

Concluded one wife from an extreme north Texas district: "I've put my foot down. This is our last term."

School Law Study

A searching examination of Texas school problems, such as preceded the Gilmer-Aikin laws, has been proposed.

Resolutions introduced in both House and Senate said many districts are unable to provide teachers and buildings to keep up with the rapid increase in pupils. A 24-member committee to study needs and report to the 1959 session was recommended.

Committee would be made up of six appointees of the governor, six by the Board of Education and six each by the lieutenant governor and speaker of the House.

Short Snorts

Texas will have 205 new lawyers after the Supreme Court holds swearing-in ceremonies May 18 for those who passed the spring bar examination.

Fishing may cost more as a result of a House-passed bill raising the fishing license from $1.65 to $2.15.

Senate finally passed a controversial House bill which will enable cities to obtain federal aid for slum clearance and urban redevelopment.

As finally passed by both houses, the REA bill will allow co-ops to serve: (1) persons in rural areas where private power is not available, (2) city residents where there is no private power company and (3) all former patrons in a rural area annexed by a city plus other patrons to whom private power is unavailable.

Included in the general appropriations bill, now in process of legislative approval, is an allocation of over $26,500,000 fir salary increases for state employees for the next two years.

half a million more than can be supplied.

In addition, the city is requried to hold in storage and out of production enough water to supply 2,356 gallons a minute for nine hours in order to satisfy the needs of any fire that could occur, or a total of 1,272,240 gallons additional. Although the threat has not been made, the National Board of Fire Underwriters can recommend that the fire insurance rates in Canyon be raised if the city does nothing to insure an adequate fire-flow rate.

With only three wells being drilled in the new field, what is the total amount of water that the city can get with the present supply plus the new supply? McMorries estimates that the present system and three new wells will supply five million gallons a day, or enough for a population of around 10,000.

Is there anything in sight that could affect the price estimates for the construction of the water system and pipe lines? McMorries told the city commission that a five to seven per cent increase in the price of steel will go into effect in July, and any pipe purchased after that time would bear the increased price.

A five per cent increase in the price of the pipe could amount to as much as an additional $20,000 in cost of construction.

Why hasn't the city been working on a new water supply for several years, rather than waiting until the shortage has developed? The shortage developed suddenly, last summer, a study of records of the water department reveals.

Previous city commissions, planning for a long-term supply for Canyon, had developed the waterfield, just north of Canyon, and had one well drilled to be held in reserve. Last summer, one of the best wells used by the city began failing and production dropped from 580 gallons a minute to 250.

The city commission decided to put the reserve well into production. When it was drilled, it tested at 750 gallons a minute. When it was put into the system in August, it produced only 450 gallons a minute.

The maximum possible daily production late in August was only 2.6 million gallons a day. When previous city commissions had developed the field, it was anticipated that the maximum daily production from the field, when all wells were pumping, would be 3.8 million gallons a day.

The fault apparently lay in the depletion of underground water supply, and not against the actions of the present or previous city commissions. Thus, the city commission had a feeling of security about Canyon's water needs and did not know before last summer that a shortage would develop.

Instead of trying to develop an entirely new waterfield at a great cost, why not purchase a few well sites closer to town and cut the expense of pipe lines? The city commission has explained that it feels it has a duty to protect the future growth of the city.

If well sites were purchased closer to town, without enough additional land to protect the wells, farmers pumping water for irrigation would help deplete the field. The cost of well sites and enough surrounding land to protect the wells in areas closer to Canyon would more than offset the cost of the longer pipe line, the commission estimates.

In the proposed waterfield on the Forrester land, there will be little or no competing irrigation wells within a mile to the north. The Forrester land, and that to the west, is unsuitable for irrigation. The land, bordering Palo Duro Creek, slopes to the north and to the south.

The waterfield runs to the north and west, according to McMorries' study, and farmers irrigating land to the north would have to pump water uphill if they drilled wells near the Forrester land.

Won't the wells owned by the City of Amarillo in that area pump out of the same water supply as that planned for Canyon? McMorries' exploration shows that the Amarillo waterfield pinches out along the eastern edge of the Forrester property, while the anticipated Canyon field pinches out along the same line.

Therefore, McMorries feels that Amarillo is pumping from a waterfield that slopes to the north and east, while Canyon would be pumping from a waterfield that slopes to the north and west.

Why didn't the City of Amarillo purchase the water rights to this land many years ago when it established its present water system in the area? A search of records in the headquarters of the water conservation district in Lubbock shows that Amarillo drilled test holes to the eastern edge of the Forrester property, but found the water table pinching out.

Apparently, the Amarillo city government felt that the edge of the water was in that area, and did not purchase the water rights there. A test hole drilled by the City of Canyon about one-quarter mile west of the westernmost hole drilled by Amarillo shows plenty of good water.

Will Canyon need to build an expensive pumping plant at the waterfield? McMorries told the city commission that the water on the Forrester property will flow to Canyon by gravity at the rate of about three million gallons a day.

Later, when more wells are drilled and the city needs more water, a relatively inexpensive centrifugal pump can be installed at the steel tank, and the line will take about nine million gallons a day. McMorries said a centrifugal pump of the sort needed there costs less than a pump for an eight-inch well.

Who will be eligible to vote in the bond election? Any citizen of Canyon who has a valid poll tax receipt or exemption who has rendered property, either real or person, for taxation may vote in the election.

Absentee voting began Monday. Those citizens who may be out of town on June 8 may obtain absentee ballots from the city hall. The election on June 8 will be held in the city hall.

Club Votes to Give To Disaster Fund

The Fairview Home Demonstration Club voted to give money and clothes to the Silverton disaster fund at the meeting Friday in the home of Mrs. Serena Bryan.

Lavena Amerson served as president in the absence of the president, and Mrs. Georgia Rogers took minutes in the absence of the secretary. The roll call, "Why I Like HD work," was answered by some because of the social activities and some because of the demonstrations.

Refreshments were served to Grace Schaeffer, Evelyn Shipman, Annie Wesley, Lizzie Wesley, Lavena Amerson, Georgia Rogers and the hostess.

Hinders Cow Sets New State Record

Tierra Blanca Homestead Star, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Louis G. Hinders, has set a new state production record in Herd Improvement Registry.

The Holstein-Friesian Association of America has announced that this cow now leads all Texas Junior three-year-old Holsteins ever milked twice daily in Herd Improvement Registry with a production of 19,263 pounds of milk and 732 pounds of butterfat.

Texas A&M College supervised the weighing and testing of this official record which is a part of the registry program of the association.
